Scholarships for international PhD students in frames of the DAAD STIBET doctoral programme

The International Office will award the following scholarships for 2020 in frames of the DAAD's STIBET doctoral programme:

Degree completion scholarships for international doctoral candidates in the final phase of their PhD: 2 scholarships for 2 months (850 € per month)

The application is open for international doctoral candidates, who are enrolled at the University of Greifswald and expect to complete their PhD within the next 12 months. The degree completion grants aim to enable international doctoral candidates to complete their degree without having to worry about finances.

Scholarship for particularly committed international doctoral candidates 2 scholarships for 3 months (850 € per month)

Scholarships for particularly committed candidates can be awarded to international doctoral students who have distinguished themselves through good academic achievements and notable social commitment in an international context. They are involved, for example, in international projects, social programmes or student initiatives as well as engage themselves for the integration of other international students or doctoral candidates in Greifswald and at the University.

Requirements

- You are an international doctoral candidate enrolled at the University in Greifswald.
- You have good academic performance and engage yourself in social work or intercultural activities.
- Your primary residence is in Germany during the awarding months.
- Candidates receiving other publicly funded fellowships - from Germany or from abroad - serving the same purpose at the same time are not eligible.

Application

If you meet the requirements, please send the following application documents to international.office@uni-greifswald.de in one pdf file by 03.05.2020:

- Cover letter/ letter of motivation in which you shortly describe your research project and your motivation for the application.
- CV including a short overview of your previous academic achievements.
- Letter of recommendation from the supervisor of your thesis.

The selection will be based on academic qualification and in case of equal qualification on social factors.

We're looking forward to receiving your application!
